EMBROIDERED DESIGN PATCHES

Although, all of the designs in this collection may be embroidered directly onto your desired item, whether it is a tank top, t-shirt, jacket, etc., we created them specifically to be used as patches.

Embroidering a patch to be sewn onto another garment or item is a fun way to add dimension and create a unique look. This is a popular way to embellish girls' and women's tank tops. These embroidered patches also look fantastic on jackets, t-shirts, and sweatshirts, plus they are a great idea to spruce up backpacks and other items that may be more difficult to hoop.

Creating your patch:

1. Select the fabric you want to use for your patch. We selected jersey knit, because it is a soft, easy fabric to work with. Select material for your patch that will complement the item it is being sewn onto.
2. Hoop the material with cutaway stabilizer. Fusing the cut away stabilizer to your fabric is recommended for stretchy fabrics, such as jersey knit.
3. Embroider the design. The color run information is included on the CD.
4. After embroidering, trim the excess fabric from around the design, leaving approximately 3/8". This is where you will run your stitch line to sew the patch onto your item.
5. Hand or machine sew the patch onto your item.
6. After washing, the excess fabric will become somewhat frayed. Leave less, fabric if you want a less frayed look to your patch.
